

The RCA Heritage Program Museum

The Program

The RCA Heritage Program at Rowan University was established in 2012 by Joseph Pane, a retired RCA executive. Its mission is to preserve RCA's historical role in the development of science and technology in the southern New Jersey region, while also supporting the future of education and research at Rowan University through scholarship opportunities and oral history projects.

The Museum

Through the creation of The RCA Heritage Program Museum, members of the Rowan community have access to RCA artifacts and company-branded communication technologies in a research room designed for both group study and private learning opportunities. RCA's partners, predecessors, and successors are well represented, offering a clear progression of technological trends and research over more than 100 years.

Collection Highlights

The museum currently houses more than 5,000 records produced by Victor Talking Machine Company and RCA. Other items of note are a Victrola (manufactured in Camden in 1908), rare technical publications, and more than 200 original corporate planning notes, documents, and surveys from 1943 and on. Several units of RCA-produced WWII radio and communication equipment are also on display, courtesy of the National Cryptologic Museum in Fort Meade, Maryland. The total inventory holds over 6,000 unique items.

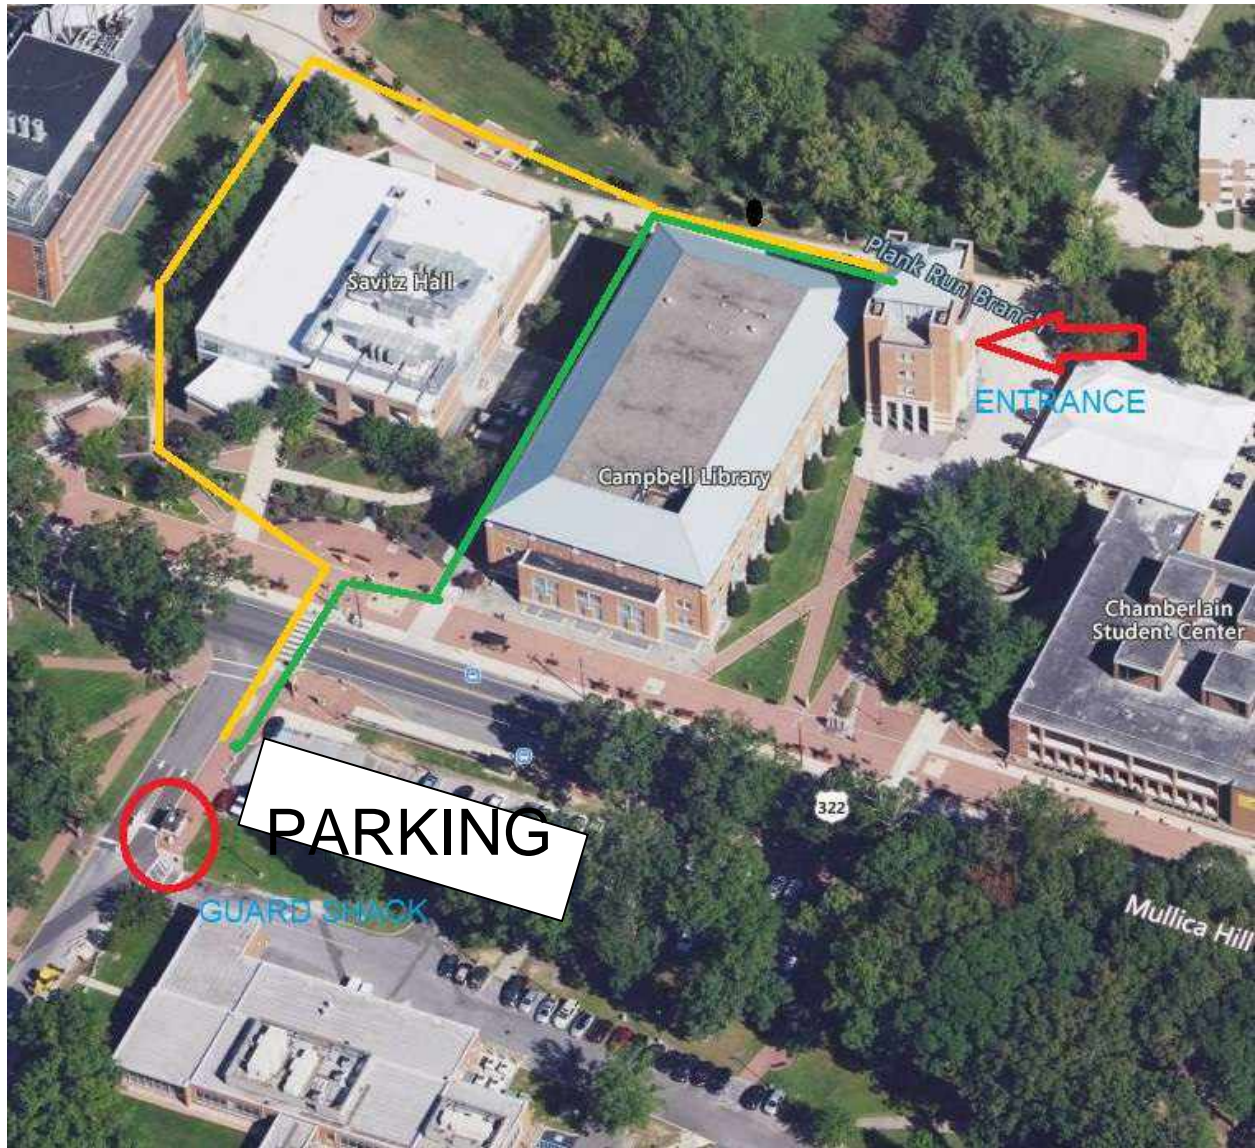

Discover more at the RCA Heritage Museum

Welcome!

Gloucester County Amateur Radio Club

The RCA Heritage Museum Tour Saturday, Oct 8, 2022

9:30 AM – Museum GCARC Tour Rowan University, Campbell Library, 5th Floor 201 Mullica Hill Road, Glassboro, NJ 08028 PH: 856-256-4807	12:00 PM – Lunch We recommend the: Landmark Americana Tap & Grill. 1 Mullica Hill Road, Glassboro, NJ 08028 PH: (856) 863-6600
Parking: There is a visitor parking lot directly across the street from the Campbell library building. Proceed to the guard shack, tell the guard you are going to the RCA Museum for a tour, you can park in the 45 min parking spots, there are usually plenty open ones. There is major construction going on currently however, there is access to the rear entrance of the library on the far side of the building.	Parking: As indicated by the map.

Follow the GREEN line for the most direct path. You will walk between Campbell Library and Savitz Hall along the loading dock side of the building and down a stairway to the rear entrance.

Follow the YELLOW path walking around Savitz Hall for access if you are in a wheelchair. There are no steps on this path.